

MUST OWE WITH HIS WIFE

Ruling By Judge Crocker in the Case of Man in the Navy.

SHIPYARDS TO BE SOLD

A Young Merchant Put in Jail for Contempt of Court.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
NORFOLK, VA., November 23.—Joseph Linwood Tatem, seaman in the United States Navy, and at present receiving $10 per month, was before Judge Crocker in the Court of Hustings in Portsmouth today for not supporting his wife and child. The Court ordered Tatem to assign one-half of his pay to his wife, and as he expects to be rated as a plumber in the Navy, at a salary of $40 per month, the order also provided that he was to assign half of that amount as soon as he secured the rating.

Judge Hancock of the Corporation Court has signed the exceptions in the case of John E. Dickerson (colored), convicted of criminal libel, and who has appealed to the Supreme Court with the hope of securing a third trial of his case, which recently ended with a verdict of five months in jail and a fine of $100 and cost. Dickerson published an article attacking the character and the reputation of the leader of the choir in the St. John's Methodist Church (colored), and she and her husband made a complaint to the grand jury, and Dickerson was indicted and convicted.

TO SELL SHIP YARDS.

The Colonna Ship Yards here were reported to be sold. Captain Charles J. Colonna, owner of a valuable water front on the eastern branch of the Elizabeth River, and having the largest railway plant here, says that he has given an option for $10,000 on the plant, but that the Brewster Brothers, of Baltimore, might take the property if the option is not taken.

IN JAIL FOR CONTEMPT.

Payser Abraham, a young merchant of Portsmouth, and a bankrupt, was sent to jail today by Judge E. Waddill, of the United States District Court for contempt. He was put into involuntary bankruptcy by his creditors and testified that he had gone to New York with $2,000, for which he had sold a large lot of merchandise, recently bought and not paid for, and lost in a poker-room. He testified that he had returned, sold more merchandise, and lost $2,000 more in the same way six weeks afterwards. Although he had $10,000 in cash here from New York to testify that he took him to the gambling place, both times and to corroborate the story, Judge Waddill declared the improbabilities of it were so flagrant that he could not do otherwise than commit him to jail. The prisoner showed no emotion at the judgment, but asked that he should be confined in the jail at Portsmouth, so that his young wife, who is in a delicate condition, and his two little children might visit him. It is the first case of this kind here, but in common with it, Judge Waddill said there were many cases mentioned in the law books where similar attempts had been made to deprive the creditors of their rights, and that the court could not tolerate such a miserable invention.

SECRET MARRIAGE.

Announcements have been made that Archer L. Goodson and Miss Mary E. Mansfield, well known young people of Portsmouth, had been secretly married in Elizabeth City, N. C., on June 20th last, by the Rev. L. L. Williams, rector of the Episcopal Church of that place. The announcement was a surprise to the friends and relatives of the young couple, and caused the groom to leave the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Goodson, No. 211 Tenth Avenue, and take up his residence with the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Mansfield, No. 137 Maple Avenue. At the Mansfield home, where the marriage was made known, the usual parental blessing was bestowed. At the time of the wedding the groom was only 19 years of age, and his bride 20. Mr. Goodson is employed as Norfolk's selling agent for the Lexington Rolling Mills Company.

DIFFICULT TO GET JURY.

The City Sergeant is summoning jurors for the trial of the case of Captain E. W. Jones, charged with the murder of Max Cameron Robinson, whose head he almost severed with the same razor which he afterwards used in cutting his own throat. A large number of names have been drawn from the jury-box by Judge Hancock and the Sergeant has the task of finding out of these names twenty-one who are not disqualified from jury service by reason of age limit, military duty, because they are keepers of grist mills or ordinaries or otherwise exempt by statute.

LET YOUR STOMACH HAVE ITS OWN WAY.

Do Not Try to Drive and Force it to Work
When it is Not Able, or You Will Suffer All the More.

You cannot treat your stomach as some men treat a baby. You cannot drive or force it into doing work at which it is not fitted. The stomach is a patient and faithful servant. It will stand much abuse and ill treatment before it gives out. But when it does you had better go slow with it and not attempt to make it work. Some people have the mistaken idea that they can make their stomachs work by starving themselves. They might cure one stomach that way, but it would take so long that they would have no use for a stomach when they got through. The sensible way out of the difficulty is to let the stomach rest if it wants to and employ a substitute to do its work.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will do the work of your stomach for you. They digest your food just as your stomach used to when it was well. You can prove this by putting your food in a glass jar with one of the tablets and sufficient water and you will see the food digested in just the same time as it is digested in the stomach. The food is broken up into small pieces so that they will satisfy your mind. Now, to satisfy both your mind and body, take Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after eating—but not before. What you want—and you will feel in your mind that your food is being digested before you feel it—is to get your stomach to work as it should. You will feel all about having a stomach just as you did when you were a healthy boy or girl.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets act in a natural way because they contain only the natural elements of the gastric juice and other digestive fluids of the stomach. It makes no difference what condition the stomach is in, they give right action to their own accord and do their work. They know their business and surrounding conditions do not influence them in any way. They thus relieve the weak stomach, take all its burdens and give it its much needed rest and permit it to become strong and healthy.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for sale by all druggists at 25 cents a box. They are so great that a druggist would as soon think of being out of alcohol or quinine. In fact, druggists are prescribing them all over the land and if your own doctor is real honest with you, he will tell you frankly that there is nothing on earth so good for dyspepsia as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

KENNEDY A MAN OF STRAW

Yates Convicted By Implication
With Stealing Railroad Records.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
GREENSBORO, N. C., November 23.—The introduction of evidence in the Old Nick trial ceased at 3 o'clock this afternoon, and the argument to the jury in behalf of the prosecution was begun by Assistant District Attorney Price twenty minutes later. Before argument began attorneys for defendants requested Judge Boyd not to limit their time, unless twelve of the fifteen counts in the bill of indictment were eliminated, so as to reduce the charges down to the three general ones of carrying on the business of a distillery with intent to defraud the government; carrying on the business of rectifying, with intent to defraud the government, and giving false notice District Attorney Holton said the whole fifteen counts meant only this in epitome, but he could not strike out any.

Judge Boyd stated he would not limit speeches, but thought defendants could get along with six hours, but if, while speaking, it was found their time was not sufficient, he would extend it. The defense closed its testimony in the morning, and the government introduced evidence tending to connect F. A. Yates, manager of the Kennedy distillery, with abstracting the railroad books from the Clemmons office last April.

RECORDS STRLEN.

Yates was connected by implication and the railroad agent stated on cross-examination that the station had been broken open and records extracted the same way five years ago before the distillery ever shipped a package from that station or Yates had come to this section.

A railroad agent from Winston testified that two weeks before the theft Yates asked him what would be done to a agent if all his railroad records were mysteriously disappear. The official notification made by Government Gauger Jones to Collector Harkins, dated July 14th, of the attempt of Williams to bribe him, and his later intimidation at the rectifying house July 4th, while he was gauging whiskey, were read to the jury, and the case was ended after having consumed twenty-four days in evidence by the government and five days by defendants, neither one of whom went on the stand.

Mr. Price completed his opening argument in an hour. He said the whole case originated from the report made by Jones, of the attempt to bribe and the subsequent action of Williams in interfering with his rival. The government was thus warned, and went quietly investigating with result that through witnesses and by records made by defendants themselves, it had been shown that stupendous frauds had been committed.

FLOOD OF LIGHT.

A perfect flood of light had been poured before the jury by these records made by the defendants themselves in shipments to all parts of the United States of whiskey, which by actual count amounted to forty-nine thousand nine hundred and ten gallons more than the government had received taxes for. The tax paid output had been eighteen hundred gallons, while the railroad books and testimony of consignees showed that fifty thousand gallons had been shipped and received of this amount at Clemmons alone. The books showed from that point alone nineteen thousand gallons had been expressed and twenty-five thousand gallons had been freighted the balance going from Winston by the Southern and the Norfolk and Western roads.

MAN OF STRAW.

He ridiculed the idea of Kennedy's being the owner of the distillery, saying he was a man without a dollar, worked for wages in the Old Nick rectifying house, two hundred yards distant, and was in every respect a man of straw.

Judge Boyd, by the defendants, had spoken twenty minutes when court adjourned. Replying to the claim of the government that it had showed the distillery had made fifty thousand more gallons than it had paid taxes for, he said he was glad it had planted itself on some position at last, and then proceeded to show that the evidence of shipments introduced referred back twelve months before the distillery was in operation, showing that Williams did not depend on the distillery for the Old Nick rectifying, wholesaling and retailing business, nor did it get its supplies entirely from that distillery, even after it was started up. In July, 1904, one year after the railroad records of shipments had been introduced by the government.

He strongly criticized the prosecution for sending to Kentucky and getting Williams' inveterate enemy, Minor, bringing him and a party of rival whiskey men here to run the distillery in the absence of all its owners, and without notice to them, when there were plenty of honest government officers and distillers in North Carolina to have done it.

He had just begun touching up Jones the gauger when time for adjournment arrived.

Judge Boyd announced this morning that the next term of Federal court to begin in Greensboro next Monday had been continued, and that the grand jury court held there until the next regular term, the fourth Monday in May.

STRUCK ON HEAD.

Harry Cain Killed By Plank at a Saw Mill.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., November 23.—Mr. Harry Cain, of Mocksville, was saw-mill, near that town, late Tuesday evening and received injuries from which he died last night. He was 25 years old and recently returned home from a two-years' stay in San Francisco. He was the son of Mr. J. H. Cain, of Davis county, and was to have been married in December to a California lady.

LOWENBERG STRICKEN.

Prominent Norfolk Capitalist and Promoter Partially Paralyzed.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
NORFOLK, VA., November 23.—David Lowenberg, one of Norfolk's most prominent citizens, sustained a stroke of paralysis in his apartment in the Monticello Hotel last evening. Drs. J. T. Lynch and D. Lee Hirschler were called in to attend the sufferer and remained at his bedside all night. It was found that a portion of the right side was affected. This morning Mr. Lowenberg's condition was considerably improved, and no serious consequences are anticipated.

SMACKED HIS FRIEND; GOES TO GRAND JURY

Case of Unusual Interest in the Police Court Yesterday.

Youngsters Fined.

Through his efforts to save a friend from perhaps serious trouble, Mr. Harvey D. West got entangled in the meshes of the law, and was sent to the grand jury yesterday morning by Justice John J. Crutcher in Police Court for smacking George McGee in the jaw. McGee's jawbone was broken in two places by a blow from Mr. West, and the latter delivered the blow only after he had planned with McGee not to return to a saloon from which he had been ejected. The case was a peculiar one, and there was considerable sympathy for the honest West, who had entangled himself in the coils of the law while doing what he thought at the time to be an act of friendship.

He and McGee were friends—had been

Dr. Chiles Bailed.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
NORFOLK, VA., November 23.—Dr. L. R. Chiles and James F. Franklin, arrested in connection with the case of Miss Sarah Atkinson, who died at the Norfolk Protestant Hospital from peritonitis following an alleged criminal operation, both waived examination in the Police Court today and were sent on to the December grand jury. Dr. Chiles, who, it is alleged, performed the operation, was held upon a charge of second degree murder, and Young Franklin, the girl's former lover, who it is charged, gave Dr. Chiles $25 to perform the operation, was held as an accessory. Dr. Chiles was rebailed before Corporation Court Judge Allan R. Hancock in the sum of $10,000 and Franklin was rebailed in the same sum in the sum of $1,500. Both bonds were renewed with the same surety.

SMACKED HIS FRIEND; GOES TO GRAND JURY

Case of Unusual Interest in the Police Court Yesterday.

Through his efforts to save a friend from perhaps serious trouble, Mr. Harvey D. West got entangled in the meshes of the law, and was sent to the grand jury yesterday morning by Justice John J. Crutcher in Police Court for smacking George McGee in the jaw. McGee's jawbone was broken in two places by a blow from Mr. West, and the latter delivered the blow only after he had planned with McGee not to return to a saloon from which he had been ejected. The case was a peculiar one, and there was considerable sympathy for the honest West, who had entangled himself in the coils of the law while doing what he thought at the time to be an act of friendship.

friends for a long time. McGee was drunk, and was wildly drunk. He wanted to start a row in a saloon and was ejected. But he persisted in wanting to go back and his friend, Mr. West, became exasperated. Mr. West is a man of powerful build, and a blow from his right arm is like the falling of a sledge hammer. When all other efforts failed to pacify McGee, West struck him in the face. Two bones were broken.

And for this West will have to explain to the jury. McGee was fined in Police Court for causing and being disorderly.

Councilman Lynch appeared as a witness against a crowd of young men who had made themselves generally obnoxious to the good citizens of Church Hill. Each of the youngsters was fined 25c, and they were warned that for the next offense they would be sent to jail.

W. H. Pitter and W. W. Griffin, two ardent Marchers, were sent to the grand jury for larceny.

Henry Roy, a negro, for striking Mr. McGee with a brick, paid $10, and Lizale Johnson contributed $2.50 for being drunk.

W. D. Jones went down for thirty days for being drunk.

BIRTHDAY OF RETREAT.

Many Ladies Called to Offer Congratulations—X-Ray.

The twenty-ninth birthday anniversary of the Retreat for the Sick was beautifully observed yesterday afternoon by a birthday party conducted under the auspices of the board of managers. The institution, which was the first of its kind established in the South, was thrown open to visitors. Substantial birthday presents were received by the ladies in charge. The Retreat was founded in 1877 by Mrs. Annabel Jones, who at the time had only twenty dollars to give. Now affairs are in a most flourishing condition, a new operating room with equipment having been added recently. Through the exertions of Miss Selden, the nurse in charge of the children's ward, an airy and spacious recreation has been constructed for the little ones, where they may be out of doors all day without having to be carried up and down the steps.

The auxiliary board, formerly in charge of the movement for a hospital on Church Hill, has identified itself with the Retreat and will devote its energies to scientific work alone. This auxiliary has recently furnished the X-ray room, where interesting experiments were exhibited for the benefit of visitors. The ladies were much interested in seeing the bones in their hands, and all were mortified at the result of turning the plectrum ray on their purses. The auxiliary is now interested in establishing a pathological laboratory. The board of the Retreat for the Sick has chosen Dr. Mark W. Payne to take charge of the X-ray room, and the electrical apparatus. The reception committee for the party was composed of Mrs. Robert Page Grymes, Mrs. A. B. Warren, Mrs. Reynolds, Mrs. Temple, and Mrs. Robert Grymes. Mrs. Greer and Mrs. Gentry served the dainty refreshments.
